

After the tax preparer submits Form 8879 and the tax return to the IRS electronically, the Support Team will notify the client about the status of the tax return.

Here's how the process typically works:

Confirmation of Acceptance:

- Once the tax return has been processed and accepted by the IRS, they issue a confirmation of acceptance.
- This confirmation indicates that the tax return has been successfully filed and processed without any issues.
- They provide any relevant updates or information regarding the status of the return and any expected refunds.

If the IRS does not accept the tax return, it's crucial to promptly take appropriate action to address the issue.

Here's a process outline for handling such situations:

1. Receipt of Rejection Notification:

- Upon receiving notification of the rejection from the IRS, the tax preparer reviews the reasons provided for the rejection and identifies the specific issues that need to be addressed.

2. Notification Preparation:

- The notification includes details about the reasons for rejection, any errors or discrepancies identified by the IRS, and steps to resolve the issue.

3. Action Plan:

- The tax preparer will attempt to resolve any reasonable issues if possible.
- If the tax preparer is unable to resolve the issues, the tax preparer will contact the client to develop an action plan to address the issues identified by the IRS.
- This may involve correcting errors on the tax return, providing additional documentation or information, or taking other necessary steps to resolve the issue.

4. Resubmission of Tax Return:

- Once the issues have been addressed and the tax return has been corrected, the tax preparer resubmits the tax return to the IRS for processing.
- They ensure that all necessary corrections have been made and that the resubmitted tax return complies with IRS requirements.

5. Follow-Up:

- The tax preparer follows up with the client to provide updates on the status of the resubmitted tax return and any further communication received from the IRS.
- They ensure that the client is informed and supported throughout the process and address any additional questions or concerns.

6. Resolution:

- Once the corrected tax return is accepted by the IRS, the tax preparer notifies the client of the successful submission and closure of the issue.
- They provide any relevant updates or information regarding the status of the return and any expected refunds.

By following this process, Action Accounting ensures that clients are promptly informed about any issues with their tax return and are provided with the necessary information and support to address them effectively.
